The Gospel is not a list of rules and regulations.
It is not good advice; it is good news.

There is no shortage of advice around about how to be right with God, but much of it involves our own efforts to be good. The problem is, we don't have the ability to keep our own moral standards, much less God's. The Gospel, thankfully, states that the way to God is not through good works, but through faith.

The Gospel points us to Jesus Christ, the Son of God, as the person to put our faith in – because “God shows His love for us in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us” (Romans 5:8).
